

22 January 2007

Press Release:

Partnership in BEE project becomes reality

Partnership Vineyards, the BEE brainchild of Riebeek Cellars and farmers and workers from the Riebeek Valley, has issued shares certificates to its various shareholders. The farmers and workers' belief in this project has kept it going for the three years since its beginning during which it had to sustain without any guarantee of Government support. Recently the Department of Land Affairs has granted money and support to this worthy project and shareholders are very excited about the new possibilities.

With the vineyards flourishing on the newly planted wine farm that will be cultivated for commercial means, the first wines under the Partnership label will hopefully see the light in 2007.

From left: Christo Somers, Tembile Ntloko, Karools Pietersen, Andreas Hendriks, Tobias Amerika and Hannie Daars with their Partnership Vineyards shares certificates